Welcome to another season of the WBCA-Summerville RPI. We are leading off the season with a ranking of the schedules of every member of division one. In our view it is an important statistic to look at because the strength of schedule counts for 50% of the RPI rankings. This gives a hint as to how good that part of the RPI could be. Before you turn the page let me take a few paragraphs to explain how the rankings are achieved.

We took the schedule of every school, found last seasons won/loss record of each opponent, added those records together, and calculated the winning percentage. As simple as that is there were a few things that were not included which need to be explained.

First it is important to know that games played versus schools not in division one do not count in RPI calculations. None are used in this ranking. A game on a schools schedule this year against such an opponent is ignored and only last season's division one record of an opponent is used.

Second, when four team tournaments (or in one case an eight team tournament) appear on a schedule, with a championship and consolation game, we have taken a different accounting of those records. In the game where the opponent is unknown, the prior seasons records of both potential opponents is divided in half and added to the total. The game has to count somehow. Since there is a 50/50 chance of playing either school the fair thing to do is use half of the opponents records. The full record of an opponent wouldn't make sense if there is a chance that opponent would never be played. (In the example of the eight-team tournament, the final game has four potential opponents so only a quarter of each record is used.) If the division a teams record results in a fraction that number is rounded up.

Third, the WNIT in November presents a different matter. Only the first game is counted. Since this is an elimination tournament there is the possibility that no game will be played after the first. The games will count in the RPI but for now the fair thing was to not count games that might not occur.

There are two rankings. There is a ranking for non-conference schedules and a ranking of complete schedules. In the non-conference ranking we can see what a school has done to enhance its season against the schedule its conference has provided. This can show how some schools compensate a weaker conference schedule with a tougher out of conference schedule.

That's all for now.
Take care
Richie Summerville
