"There are many great student–athletes in the game of women's basketball, but few that possess the qualities to help their program excel athletically," said WBCA CEO Beth Bass. "This year's Kodak/WBCA NCAA Division II All–America Team represents the best of women's basketball and we are delighted to present each of these student–athletes with this honor."

"For the past 32 years, Kodak has partnered with the WBCA to celebrate the best in women's college basketball. Kodak is in the business of helping people capture and share memories. It is gratifying for us to help honor these student–athletes whose highlights have thrilled us for so many years," said Carl Gustin, Chief Marketing Officer and Vice President at Kodak. "We are proud to recognize the accomplishments of these young women and the positive recognition they bring to their schools, their communities and the game."
